George J. Gould, representing the family interests, is ready to step down from the control and active management of the railroad property, completing the rise and fall of a railroad dynasty. George J. Gould's career as a railroad magnate began in 1862, when the Gould estate passed into his hands as trustee on the death of his father, Jay Gould. The Gould railroad properties have been floundering in shallow water ever since the troubles following the panic of 1907. For five or six years rumor has followed rumor as to the ultimate fate of the properties, and the final surrender of George Gould came as no surprise. It will remain for the financial historian of some future time to size up with accuracy the real place of the Goulds, father and son, in the development of the country's railroad transportation. Many persons in this city are acquainted with interesting inside facts relating to the management of the financial end of the Gould system in recent years, but they have never been and may never be made public. But, whatever may be said in criticism of the Gould policy, there is always to be borne in mind this, that George Gould has been an active energetic force in American financial and railroad affairs; that he is no trifler, but a man of ambitious ideas, broad grasp of affairs, imagination and untiring application to business.

To Marry Roman Prince.

Some interest has been created here by the announcement from Rome that Miss Laura McDonald Stallo, daughter of Edmund K. Stallo of this city and Paris, is engaged to be married to Prince Francesco Rospioli, member of one of the old and distinguished families of the Roman aristocracy. Miss Stallo is a granddaughter of the late Alexander McDonald, one of John D. Rockefeller's partners in the Standard Oil company. Mr. McDonald died in 1905, leaving a fortune of about $15,000,000. Half of this vast fortune went to Miss Laura Stallo and the other half to her sister Helen, who is now the Princess Murat and resides in Paris. The Stallo girls nearly love a title. Soon after she inherited her fortune Miss Helen Stallo became engaged to Nils Florman, a 25-year-old good family, but slender pocketbook, who was earning a living in New York. But she exercised the feminine privilege of changing her mind and summarily broke off her engagement to the young Swede and married Prince Murat. Miss Helen's example has now been followed by her sister. Only six months or so ago the engagement of Miss Laura Stallo to Jefferson Crane of Cincinnati was announced. But it seems that this engagement did not "take" for now she is to wed the Roman prince.

Stock Exchange "Celebrates."

Following the close of business in the Stock Exchange at noon today the members participated in an interesting celebration to commemorate the founding of the old Tontine Coffee House, where the Stock Exchange had its first home. The celebration was conducted under the auspices of the Lower Wall Street Business Men's association. A luncheon and a short programme of addresses was followed by a parade in Duane's Tavern. A feature of the ceremony was the reading of a bronze tablet containing a list of famous historical letters, the official programme of the day's events, a history of the lower section of Wall street and sketches of the societies and associations participating. The tablet is to be given into the custody of the New York Historical society and is not to be opened until the year 2014.

Old College Seal Is Found.

After being lost for more than one hundred years, the original seal of King's College, now Columbia University, has been discovered and restored to the keeping of this university. Until it was found recently in the library of George H. Parke of Williamsport, Pa., it was believed to have been destroyed in the American Revolution, when King's College went out of existence, to be revived later as Columbia College. According to the inscription on its obverse side, the seal was presented to King's College by George Harrison, a vestryman of Trinity church from 1762 to 1765. The gift was made and the seal engraved in 1756.

For more than one hundred years the relic had been in the possession of the Parke family. It was originally obtained in 1899 by the grandfather of George H. Parke from a man who was employed by the trustees of the college to engrave a new seal.

English Millionaires in N. Y.

Lionel Guest and his wife, who is a daughter of the late John Bingham, have come over for a holiday in New York, before going to their country place in Canada for the summer. A younger son of the first Baron Wimborne, the millionaire coal-mine owner, Lionel Guest has elected to spend the most of his years since he attained his majority on this side of the Atlantic. Some twelve or fifteen years ago he located in Montreal and soon became a well known figure in financial circles in that city. For some time he was an active partner in a Montreal brokerage firm and later he gave much time to promoting the Hotel-Carlton Hotel enterprises. It was the daughter of Mrs. Lionel Guest, Miss Lucy Dodge, it will be recollected, who created a furore in London society about a year ago by mysteriously disappearing from her home. Just as her family and friends began to fear that it was a second Dorothy Arnold case, Miss Dodge was found living in modest lodgings in the great British metropolis, and satisfactorily explained her disappearance by saying that she had left home because of an irrepressible desire to earn her own living.

Lamb's Club on Tour.

New York was treated last night to a first view of the annual spring gam-bol of the Lamb's club. Following the matinee performance at the Metropolitan Opera House this afternoon, the all-star aggregation departs on a special train for a week's tour that will include Philadelphia, Boston and four or five other cities, extending as far as Chicago. The offering of the Lamb's this year is quite the most notable in all their career as great entertainers. Conforming to custom the programme opened with a musical first part, but with many novel features added. De-

Wolf Hopper acted as interlocutor and the end men included such famous men of the stage as William H. Crane, Douglas Fairbanks, Andrew Macoy, Raymond Hitchcock, Thomas A. Wise, William Collier, Frank Lator, Nat Willis and several others. The serious note of the programme was a modest morality play entitled "Experience", and written by George V. Hollar. There were many songs and monologues by individual stars and other attractive features introducing David Belasco, George Broadhurst, J. Hartley Manners, James O'Neill, Wilton Lackaye, Henry Woodruff and other men who have become famous as actors, playwrights, managers or musicians.

POLICE PADDLE VAGRANTS.

Fert Wayne, Ind., May 22.—A squad of five patrolmen under the direction of Capt. Richard Kelly last night arrested twenty-two vagrants who had camped in the outskirts of the city, marked each man by clipping a fore-row through his hair with a pair of horse clippers, ordered them out of town, and as they ran, "paddled" each with a barbed wire. The vagrants were told that if captured before the clipped hair grew out they would be sent to the stone pile for 100 days. The tent and equipment of the camp was burned.

DRIES SKIN ERUPTIONS RIGHT UP END ECZEMA WITH SULPHUR USE LIKE COLD CREAM TO STOP ITCHING

The moment you apply bold-sulphur to an itching or broken out skin, the itching stops and healing begins, says a renowned dermatologist.

This remarkable sulphur made into a thick cream effects such prompt relief, even in aggravated Eczema, that it is a never-ending source of amazement to physicians.

For many years bold-sulphur has occupied a secure position in the treatment of cutaneous eruptions by reason of its cooling, parasite-destroying properties and nothing has ever been found to take its place in relieving it-ritable and inflammatory affections of the skin. While not always establishing a permanent cure, yet, in every instance, it immediately subdues the itching irritation and heals the Eczema right up and it is often years later before any eruption again manifests itself.

Any good pharmacist will supply an ounce of bold-sulphur cream, which should be applied to the affected parts like the ordinary cold cream; it isn't unpleasant and the prompt relief afforded is very welcome, particularly when the Eczema is accompanied with torturous itching.—Advertisement.
